

Drainage Swales

Swales are recommended as a natural and effective tool for managing water drainage from the road.

Swale examples

Plant examples

The plants will filter the pollutants from the stormwater. The pictures above are examples of the types of plants that could be used.

Instead of piping and treating stormwater in a centralized storm drain basin, the water (quality and volume) will be managed on site through the swales.