

What to Expect During Construction

Utility work began in January and construction will begin in early February. Work is expected to be complete in fall 2018.

Businesses will be accessible during construction.

Left turns from State will not be allowed at the intersection starting as early as the end of February.

Construction work can be unpredictable and schedules are subject to change.

Travel impacts

Expect lane restrictions and delays. During rush hour we will try to keep two lanes open in each direction on State. However, short-duration lane closures will occur on occasion.

Noise

Some work may be very noisy - heavy equipment, backup alarms.

Work hours

Typically 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Night & weekend work

Some night work will be needed to accommodate certain activities.

Why Night Work?

Night work is typically
7 p.m. – 6 a.m.

Due to the residential areas near the project, crews will work at night only when necessary.

Night work is helpful when activities

- Involve major impacts to traffic.
- Require turning the traffic signal off.

Four scenarios call for night work at this time

- Irrigation pipe crossings
- Concrete paving
- Traffic signal work
- Overhead activities

Why Remove Left Turns from State?

During construction, State Street will have lane restrictions and by late February the left turn lane will be removed. As a result, motorists will no longer be able to make a left turn from State Street onto Veterans Memorial or 36th during construction. Why?

We have learned from other intersection construction projects that allowing left turns on busy roadways without a left turn lane creates significant traffic backups.

How will motorists access businesses off of 36th?

Motorists can make left turns into driveways and/or side streets further from the intersection to access those businesses.

How will motorists go south?

Westbound motorists are advised to use Whitewater Boulevard to access Chinden Boulevard.

Eastbound motorists are advised to use Glenwood to access Chinden Boulevard.

90%

90 percent of motorists on State are not making left turns at the intersection.

Advanced signage and message boards will be placed at key locations reminding motorists to use an alternate route.
